

A Celebration Called India!

In India, festivals are a celebration of more than tradition, they're a celebration of culture and its many faces.

An ode to its diversity.

A way to preserve its rich heritage.

A salutation of its social harmony.

A beating of its spiritual heart.

While these occasions have been captured in many beautiful ways, there's no better way to bring out the aesthetic of its joy than with artistic strokes that capture the spontaneous flair,
and the very essence of these moments.

At Brigade, we continue in our tradition of celebrating all that makes our country unique, with an annual calendar that captures some of its grand festivals.

The Ground Reaps Joy, The Skies Rejoice. The sun rises in the north, the days grow longer and India wakes up to the harvest festival of Makara Sankranti, marking the end of winter and the onset of spring. Traditions vary across regions; in the north, Lohri sees bonfires and song, while in TN, Pongal is marked by the preparation of a special rice dish and India's own bull-taming sport – Jallikattu. Bihu in Assam involves dance, music, and feasting. Stringing all these diverse festivities in a soaring sign of unity is kite-flying. All a tribute to nature's bounty while fostering a sense of togetherness and gratitude.

A Parade of The Joy Called Life! The Goa Carnival or Carnaval, is a vibrant and colourful annual festival that is synonymous with joy, exuberance and the spirit of Goa. Held in the days preceding Lent, it marks a period of revelry before the austerity of the season. The festivities burst open in a kaleidoscope of colours, music, dance and elaborate parades. Streets come alive with masked revellers, floats adorned with intricate designs, and energetic samba performances. From traditional red-and-black attire to lively processions and captivating music, the Carnaval encapsulates the region's deep cultural roots, history, diversity and love for merrymaking.

The Unique Festival of Colors. Holi traces its beginnings in Hindu mythology, celebrating the triumph of good over evil and the arrival of spring. Revellers enthusiastically play with vibrant colours, showcasing a jubilant expression of kinship and unity. Holi celebrations start the night before with 'Holika Dahan', where people gather and perform religious rituals in front of a bonfire: a ritual that is symbolic of the victory of good over evil. Communities come together, dance to folk music, and indulge in delicious sweets. Holi's kaleidoscopic revelry transcends social barriers, embedding joy and harmony into the cultural fabric of India.

At The Threshold of Happiness. Ugadi or Yugadi, 'the beginning of a new age', the New Year for Kannadigas and Telugu people, marks the dawn of a new lunar cycle, symbolising renewal and new beginnings. Elaborate rangoli designs grace doorsteps, and families gather to prepare a special dish, 'Ugadi Pachadi'. In Maharashtra, it's known as Gudi Padwa, celebrated by hoisting a gudi (flag) and consuming neem leaves and jaggery reminding us of the contrasting flavours of life and the equanimity with which to experience both. Each state adds its unique touch, yet Ugadi unites them in a collective celebration of hope, auspiciousness, and fresh starts.

Embracing The Spirit of Community. Eid al-Adha, the 'Festival of Sacrifice' originates from the story of the faithful Ibrahim's willingness to sacrifice his son as an act of obedience and is a celebration of faith, charity and sharing. The heart of the festival is 'Qurbani' with the ritual sacrifice of an animal and the meat being divided among family, neighbours, and those in need. Festive meals, exchange of gifts, and wearing new clothes mark the joyous occasion, embodying the values of compassion, generosity, and unity in the community.

Old Bonds, New Beginnings and The Birth of an Avatar. Rakhi is a cherished and unique Hindu festival celebrating the bond between brothers and sisters. On this day, sisters tie a sacred thread (Rakhi) on their brothers' wrists, signifying protection and love, while brothers offer gifts and renew their vow to safeguard their sisters. Navroz, celebrated by Zoroastrians, marks the Persian New Year. Families come together, feast, and set a 'haft-seen' table with seven symbolic items, signifying renewal, growth and new beginnings. Krishna Janmashtami, commemorates the birth of Lord Krishna, one of Hindu devotees' most beloved Gods. Devotees fast, sing devotional songs, and re-enact scenes from Krishna's life, such as the Dahi Handi, where human pyramids are formed to break a pot of curd.

The God of Wisdom and The Generous King. Ganesh Chaturthi celebrates Ganesha, the God of new beginnings, wisdom & intelligence, and the remover of obstacles. Ganesha stands out as one of the most creatively crafted idols, taking on various forms, shaped by the devotee's imagination. Festivities include devotional songs, energetic dances and processions. Onam is celebrated throughout the state of Kerala and is marked by happiness, excitement and the legendary boat race - 'Vellamkali'. Onam is celebrated both in honour of the visit of the mythological King Mahabali, a generous and virtuous ruler, who visits his people once a year, and the other reason being the time of the year when a good harvest has been gathered all over Kerala, resulting in abundance and happiness.

The Festival of Lights! Diwali or Deepawali, shines luminously in ancient Hindu mythology, signifying the spiritual victory of light over darkness, good over evil, and knowledge over ignorance. The lighting of oil lamps and candles, colourful rangoli patterns and fireworks decorate homes and streets, and quite literally for a few days illuminates the entire country. Families, friends and neighbours exchange gifts and sweets, and elaborate feasts are prepared. Diwali's significance extends beyond religion; fostering a renewal of hope, of shared happiness and uniting diverse communities through the spirit of love, joy and togetherness.
